

While we can certainly debate our department's procedures with our colleagues in the normal way next quarter, this is of little use to Mr. Wilde. His financial support was all based on his having student status and he is thus in immediate hardship. We would like to know whether there is any rapid intervention that you can instigate that makes it possible for him to regain his student status pending a review of his case.

Sincerely,

Val Rust,

Professor, Head of Division on Social Science and Education.

Nick Blurton Jones

Professor, Advisor.

cc. Eva Baker, Harold Levine, Amy Wells